Czech Resistance Smashed, Nazis Claim

Quiet Restored After Execution Of 9 In Prague

Disorders, Topped Off by Student's Death In Prison, Leads to Arrest of 1,200; Famous Educational Centers Closed For 3 Years.

BULLETIN

PRAGUE—(UP)—Three Czechs, including two policemen, have been shot for attacking a German, it was announced today.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN — German authorities today asserted that all anti-German ring-leaders in Prague are among the nine executed or 1,200 arrested during the last few days.

There, it was declared, resistance to German rule has been smashed "once and for all."

Sources of the anti-German agitation in the former Czech republic, authorities in Berlin said, reflect foreign instigation, which "inflamed the minds of the students."

Communication with Prague remained difficult, and German quarters there were silent, except to assert that all is quiet, and there have been no new developments.

The Prague "clean-up" seems to have swept every corner of the former capital of Czechoslovakia, bringing into Nazi hands rebellious students as well as other subversive groups.

Outbreaks of the students began on Oct. 28, the Czech "Independence day," and they were renewed Wednesday when word spread of the death of a student in prison.

Germany's firm hand clamped down on the disorders yesterday when three regiments of Hitler elite guards moved into Prague with full military equipment. Soon afterwards it was officially announced that the nine ringleaders were shot.

Famous old Prague university and other institutions of higher learning in Bohemia-Moravia were closed today under a decree banning their reopening for three years.

Elite guards occupied the

HUNTER KILLED AS AUTO HITS TRAIN IN FOG

Akron Man Meets Death, 2 of 3 Companions Hurt In Crash South of Willard.

CAR SKIDS ON WET ROAD

2 Drivers Arrested as 2 Are Injured In Other Mishaps In This Area.

An Akron hunter was killed and two of his three companions were injured this morning when their car crashed into the side of a moving B. and O. passenger train in a heavy fog two miles south of Willard.

Two other men were hurt, neither seriously, in two traffic crashes last night in the Mansfield area which resulted in the arrest of two motorists for careless and reckless operation of their cars

Killed in the auto-train collision near Willard was Kenneth Spade, 25, of Akron, member of a party of four en route to the Willard marshes to hunt. Spade's head was crushed and he died almost instantly.

Harold Clayton, 19, another member of the party, was in Willard Municipal hospital, where X-ray pictures were being taken to determine the exent of his injuries. Harold Capplinger, 20, who was riding with Clayton in the rear seat of the car, was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released.

Driver Uninjured.

Robert Smyth, 20, driver of the car, was not injured. He told authorities he applied the brakes when the train loomed in front of him in the fog, but the car skidded on the wet pavement and crashed into a coach.

Spade was riding in the front seat with Smyth and the impact of the collision threw him against the windshield. The

Daring Bandits Loot Missouri Railway Station

'Jesse James' Desperadoes Flee With 7 Pouches Containing Undetermined Amount of Valuables; Get Entire Mail Deposit In Three Minutes.

(By United Press)

MONROE CITY, Mo. — Masked bandits with sawed off shotguns and side arms held up the Burlington railway station today and escaped with seven U. S. mail pouches.

In a style made notorious and highly effective by the desperado James brothers in the same section of northeastern Missouri a half century ago, they swooped down on the station apparently advised in advance that two trains which preceded them by an hour had left valuable mail pouches.

Included in the loot were three leather bags, chained and locked, which authorities said might have contained some cash or negotiable securities.

Marshal Tom Spalding said, however, that there were no payrolls coming into town today and a cursory investigation led postal authorities to doubt whether the bandits obtained any large amount of money.

Spalding said he understood similar mail robberies have been reported in Illinois recently and he added that the possibility the same gang was responsible for this one was being investigated.

Enter at 3 a. m.

Two of the bandits—state police believed there were at least three in the raiding party—entered Station Master A. G. Squire's office at 3 a. m. Both were masked.

"Put up your hands, brother, and keep your mouth shut," one ordered. "And turn your back —now!"

Squire complied. In three minutes, he said, they had what they had come for, the entire mail deposit of two Burlington trains—one that reached here at 1:30 a. m. and the other at 2 a. m. Four of the pouches seized were of the ordinary rip-cord variety, containing first class mail.

Squires said it would be almost impossible to immediately determine the value of the mail pouches. A long period of waiting, followed by claims of persons sustaining losses, would be necessary before even postal authorities would know, he said.

LOCKE SPENDS $85 IN VICTORY

Mayor-Elect's Campaign Costs $43 Under Opponent's; 12 Other Candidates File.

It cost William J. Locke $84.98 to be elected mayor of Mansfield last week, his expense report to the county board of elections disclosed today.

Locke's expense was $13 less than Mayor Claude M. Hunter spent in his unsuccessful campaign for re-election. Hunter's expenses totaled $128. Both Locke and Hunter, however, received considerable financial help from the campaign committees.

Neither the Republican nor Democratic committee had filed its report this morning although the deadline for filing was last night.

Twelve other candidates who filed their expense reports late yesterday were Herbert L. Rinehart, Republican, defeated for city auditor, who spent $76; Lydon Beam, Republican, defeated for solicitor, $58; Howard Miller, Democrat, elected council president, $45.50; W. C. Mansfield, Republican, defeated for council president, $56.45; Jacob J. Kutschall, elected Fourth ward councilman, $45; George Kyle, re-elected Third ward councilman, $18.58; Arthur Croak, re-elected Sixth ward councilman, no expense; Philip Smith, elected councilman-at-large, 22.35; Harry Ross, defeated for council in the Fourth ward, $10; G. W. McFarland, re-elected Madison township trustee, $18; J. W. Sawyer, defeated for the trustee's post, $10; and Floyd Miles, defeated for trustee, $31.48.

TOTAL $131,000

Personal Tax Collection Ends, Receipts Near 100 Per Cent.

Although about $19,000 in personal taxes were still unpaid when the tax books for the last half of the year closed at noon today, County Treasurer John E. Kolb expected the receipts to total nearly 100 per cent of the charge when mail collections are tabulated.

Receipts this morning amounted to $130,980 and the treasurer said there was enough in the mail today to boost the total several thousand dollars. Late payments by mail should run the collections up to the last half charge of $150,000, he said.

Tax books opened Oct. 15. The last half personal collection was the final one of the year in the county, since the real estate tax books closed several weeks ago.

HUNT GUNMAN, PURSE GRABBER

Police Seek Boy Who Accosted Woman; Man Held Up on Street, Robbed of $8.

A youth who accosted a woman and snatched her purse and a gunman who held up a man and robbed him of $8 were the objects of a police search today.

Mrs. Thomas J. McDermott, 518 Sloane avenue, told police that a boy about 18 years old accosted her on Wood street, near West First while she was on her way home about 9:45 p. m. yesterday and snatched her purse containing a small amount of change, her bank book and some keys.

She said the youth stopped her and asked if she was going home. While she was talking to him he grabbed her purse and ran between the houses, she told police.

Less than an hour earlier Ralph Pickens, Garden acres, reported that he had been held up and robbed at East Sixth street and Lundy's lane.

The gunman stopped him as he neared the intersection, pointed a gun at him and removed his billfold containing $8, Pickens said.

Young Bashford had gone hunting alone in a woods near his home after school yesterday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Bashford.

Capone Ready to Cry Quits, Brother Says

Former Gangster's Business Man Kin Declares Al Bears No Grudge For Seven Years of Imprisonment.

(By Associated Press)

BALTIMORE—"Scarface" Al Capone, the humbled "big shot," is ready to cry quits.

That, at least, was the word passed along today by his brother, John, Villanova, Pa., business man, whose name has never been connected with the $25,000,000 crime syndicate Al once ruled in Chicago.

Speaking for the bed-ridden gangster, at the first press interview the Capone family has granted since Al entered the hospital here Thursday, John Capone asserted his brother bore no resentment toward society for his seven years in prison.

"He's in a cheerful mood and doesn't hold a grudge against anybody," the family spokesman said.

Al 'Little Nervous.'

He added that the "big shot," who is suffering from paresis, a softening of the brain, was "a little on edge—"

"Nervous like anyone coming out of there." By "there," he meant Alcatraz, the federal prison in California where Capone served most of his sentence for income tax evasion.

He would not comment on the clinical aspect of the case, however, referring all inquiries to Dr. Joseph Moore, Capone's attending physician. Last night, Dr. Moore said his patient was "chronically but not acutely ill."

He replied "no comment" when asked if Capone was rational.

Although John Capone indicated to reporters that, if and when Al was discharged, he would be taken to his Miami, Fla., home, it was widely reported that the gangster, through representatives, had been house-hunting there.

One large real estate firm had drawn up a lease on a $250-a-month house, one report said, then cancelled the business on discovery they were dealing with Capone.

SEEKS REPORT

Senator Aroused After British Cruiser Visits U. S. Port.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sen. Rush D. Holt, (D., W.Va.) has demanded from acting Secretary of Navy Charles Edison a "full and complete report on the presence of a British cruiser in San Diego harbor, Calif.

"It appears to me that some public officials are trying to get us involved in this war," Holt said yesterday.

The neutrality act permits the entry of belligerent warships into American ports for the purpose of refueling and obtaining repairs so as to enable them to continue to their bases.

Dispatches from San Diego said that the British light cruiser Caradoc put in there yesterday, refueled and then left within the prescribed 24-hour limitation on the stay of such craft.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—The Chrysler corporation production shut-down entered its 44th day today to establish a record for an automotive labor dispute but it was indicated that the negotiators were nearing a settlement.

The longest previous dispute was the General Motors sitdown strike of 1937, which ended on its 43rd day.

Covington Police Claim 11 Youths Stole 5 Automobiles.

COVINGTON—(INS)—A series of burglaries and five auto thefts were confessed by a band of 11 boys led by a 17-year-old youth, Covington police announced today.

Police said the leader, who allegedly confessed, told them he "always packed a rod," and had his own personal bodyguard.

BLAZE LOSS $10,000

CINCINNATI, O.—(INS)—Damage from fire which swept through the Acme Awning company was estimated at $10,000 by fire officials today. Fireman Robert Wilmes, 25, was cut slightly by falling glass.

COST $197,000

Bigelow Foes $7,000 In Debt After Victory Push.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) The Ohio emergency committee spent $197,810 in its campaign to defeat the Bigelow old age pension and initiative amendents, its expense account on file with Secretary of State Earl J. Griffith showed today.

The report said the committee received contributions of $197,931, leaving a balance of $121 after the campaign ended, with unpaid debts totalling $7,401.

Largest contributors were various city Chamber of Commerce. The Ohio chamber made several contributions ranging from $1675 to $13,000.

The report included accounts of several anonymous contributors of more than $1,000.

NEW PROBE SET IN FLINT CASE

Nazi Hear U. S. Sailor Very Ill In Norwegian Hospital.

BERLIN — (INS) — German authorities today were expected to open a new investigation into the condition of the ill sailor who was taken off the American freighter City of Flint at Bergen, Norway.

The probe, it was understood, will be based on the report in a Stockholm paper that the sailor is in serious condition in a Bergen hospital.

If this is true, it was pointed out, the Norwegian case on which Bergen authorities based their release of the City of Flint—that the sailor was not sufficiently ill to warrant the German crew's putting into Bergen — would be blasted.

BABY DIES ON CAR

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Five-months-old Colleen Minston died yesterday on a street car en route to a hospital. Her parents said she had been treated for pneumonia.

2 Actresses File Love Balm Suits In Nick of Time

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Breach of promise and similar suits are banned in California from today on but two actresses just "made it under the wire" with actions for $150,000 each late yesterday.

Mary Hiltabrandt and Jessie Jackson charged they had been engaged to C. M. Van Wormer and Dr. Ralph Richards, respectively, but were jilted by them. Van Wormer is a wealthy broker and Dr. Richards lectures on astrology.

The law prohibiting filing of breach of promise, seduction, alienation of affections and criminal conversation suits, became effective Sept. 19, but a 60 day grace period was allowed for filing suits whose cause of action occurred before that time.

Another "under the wire" suit was the $150,000 action, filed Wednesday, of Miss Ruby Lockwood against Clifford B. Gray, wealthy sportsman and former member of the United States Olympic bobsled team.

FLIES RED FLAG

Bremen To Start Russia To New York Service Soon.

COPENHAGEN—(INS)— Instead of the swastika, the former German liner Bremen now flies the hammer and sickle of the Soviet Union, according to reports reaching here today from Murmansk, where the Bremen anchored after her dash from New York.

The Bremen, it was said, was transferred to the Soviets under the German barter agreement, and the Russians plan to start a Murmansk-New York service soon.

655,000 Jews To Be Virtual Prisoners In Polish 'State'

(By International News Service)

COPENHAGEN—To be ringed around with a "frontier" or barbed wire, 655,000 Jews will be evacuated to German Poland by next April, according to a Berlin story in the newspaper Politiken today.

A continuous stream of Jews is arriving in the new Jewish "state" around Lublin, the paper said, and by next spring 65,000 will have been sent from Vienna, 30,000 from Posen and West Prussia (formerly the corridor), 170,000 from Lodoz, 150,000 from the Bohemia-Moravian protectorate, and 240,000 from Germany proper.

Conditions of hardship confront the Jews immediately upon arrival, said the Politiken. The paper asserted:

Lublin itself is so overcrowded that the last train was forced to move on, the station master refusing to allow the Jews to get off.

Jews were allowed to take only 300 marks ($120) with them, plus luggage they could carry.

Upon arrival, all men up to the age of 70 are put to work building roads and drainage systems and reconstructing houses destroyed in the war.

Twelve hours of work a day are required, with only a half an hour's pause.

Jews, the Politiken went on, are placed in camps much like concentration camps, and many suicides were reported.

The intention, according to the paper, is to put barbed wire entanglements around the whole state when the migration has been completed, with Polish police and troops watching over it.

Winter Brings New Fear of German Air Raids To Britain

(By United Press)

LONDON — Winter settles unofficially over the allied war fronts at midnight, (6 p. m., Mansfield time) lengthening the long, hazardous nights of "black-out" and increasing the fear that Germany, blocked off the sea and out of France, will try to stimulate her hungry people by sending fleets of bombers against the British Isles.

At midnight, the clocks in Great Britain and France will stop for an hour, ending daylight saving time.

This means, in London for instance, that "black-out" starts at 4:34 p. m. Monday and that hundreds of thousands of clerks and factory hands will have to go home in absolute darkness.

The perils of this condition were best illustrated by figures showing that 561 persons were killed in British traffic "black-out" in October, when the days were longer and workers got home before dark.

These casualties at home were greater than the combined British and French losses on the battle front. And with the Christmas shopping season now at hand, the condition was expected to be critical.

The Evening Standard called it "a winter of hell with the lid on," and used a phrase of the poet Milton to describe it as "horrible on all sides round."

In the face of this, German air activity had increased all over Western Europe, in violation of neutral borders and the belief was spreading in well-informed quarters here that a German air offensive against Britain could be expected before Christmas.

Reports 48 American Ships Detained By Belligerents

U. S. FIGURES SHOW BRITISH EXAMINED 33

France Inspected 10, Germany Four, State Department Says In Two-Month Report.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The state department today reported 48 cases in which belligerents had detained American ships for examination of papers or cargo.

Of the total detentions, Great Britain was responsible for 33, France for 10, Germany for 4 and an unidentified vessel for one.

The report included information received by the state department between September 1 and November 17. Forty-four ships were detained, but four of these were stopped twice.

In most cases, the department reported, American ships were not stopped by warships on the high seas but were detained when they docked at belligerent ports. A departmental statement said:

"As a general practice, for reasons of their own, the vessels which cleared from ports of the United States on or before November 4, the effective date of the neutrality act of 1939, ordinarily put into belligerent ports en route to their destinations, and the principal difficulty thus far has arisen in connection with delay involved in the examination of the vessels and their cargoes before being permitted to proceed on their voyages."

Flint Held Longest.

The longest detention was that of the City of Flint, held for 27 days by a German prize crew until it was released November 4 by Norwegian authorities.

Shipping companies are lodging their complaints about lengthy detentions with the maritime commission, and that body is passing them along to the state department for study. No action has been taken thus far.

The department's report showed a release date for all save one of the detained ships. That was the Lafcomo of the Tampa Interocean Steamship company, which was reported detained upon its arrival yesterday at Weymouth, England.

Three instances of American ships being detained and examined by German submarines were reported.

This government recognizes the right of belligerents to halt neutral ships at sea for examination of their papers and cargoes to determine whether they may be carrying contrabrand to the enemy.

During the World war, however, the United States protested vigorously against the British practice of taking American ships into port for preliminary examination and search. This government contended such a procedure caused only delay to innocent vessels.

Pains From Auto Accident Soothed By $25,000 Party

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA — Hamburgers went high hat and a bandage peeped from the guest of honor's blonde bangs as 200 of the orchid set danced till dawn today at a birthday party given by wealthy Doris Duke Cromwell for a debutante injured in an automobile accident.

The story going 'round was that the bandaged "Bud," pretty Peggy Anne Huber of Philadelphia's exclusive "main line" section, left a sick bed for her 18th birthday party.

But the patch on Peggy's pate, cut a week ago when her automobile plunged into a tree, barely showed as she whirled round the ballroom.

Champagne and other potables flowed at a large square bar but the counter attraction was a hamburger dispensary, rigged up as a roadside diner.

The Cromwell's invited 250 and paid out about $25,000 to entertain Peggy Anne and her friends

Up and Down THE STREET

Making music with bottles should be left to the experts, the four-year-old twins of Mr. and Mrs. George Reece, Ontario, have decided since an accident this week which may result seriously for one of them. Laura and George, who were born in Mansfield, were "making music" by clashing two bottles together when one of the bottles broke and sprayed the children with glass splinters. One of them pierced Laura's eye and George's face was cut. It has not yet been determined whether the little girls' vision would be permanently impaired.

George Berg, president of city council, today had achieved one of his secret ambitions—to be mayor of Mansfield. By virtue of his office, Berg will be acting mayor during the next two weeks while Mayor Claude M. Hunter vacations in the south. He will have few if any duties however as acting mayor and will be called upon to act only in case of emergency.

Seated on the 50-yard line at the Notre Dame-Northwestern game in South Bend, Ind., today were a couple of Mansfielders who were guests of a friend because they were willing to offer a little assistance. They were Harold W. Arlin, president of the board of education, and Harry E. Mehock, high school athletic director. In return for their choice accommodations they will drive a couple of new cars back to this city from a South Bend factory for Paul Auxter, Mansfield auto dealer.

The weather to the contrary, it begins to look like Christmas in Mansfield. Workmen have been putting up Christmas street decorations this week and strands of colored lights and laurel have been strung across intersections. An attractive new feature this year will be the 38 stringers that will be put across the downtown streets in the middle of the blocks. In the center will be big white lighted stars, with colored cylinders of light on either side. Colored cel-o-glass cones will be fitted over all of the corner whiteway lights. The work will be completed and the lights turned on next Friday, official opening of the Christmas shopping season. The Retail Merchants association sponsor the decorations each year.

8 RETAIN POSTS IN AUTO CLUB

VanDerau Elected to Fill Vacancy on Board at Annual Dinner.

(Pictures on Page 3)

One new director was elected and eight re-elected to the board of the Richland County Auto club last night at the club's 20th annual dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Clarence Van Derau was elected to the board to fill the vacancy left by R E. Imhoff, retiring. All nine were elected for three year terms. The board of directors re-elected Carl H. Stander president of the club for the 10th consecutive year and re-named Frank H. Beverstock secretary-manager for the 21st year.

Other officers re-elected were Dr. J. P. Stober, Bellville, and Harry Sotzen, Shelby, vice presidents; and John Pierce, treasurer. Directors elected, besides Van Derau, were F. C. Small, Stander, Ralph Moorhead, Fred W. Beach, William M. Weldon, sr., C. J. Anderson, Henry Brunner and Freeman Brown.

In his annual report Beverstock said that the club has a membership of 1,838, an increase of 188 over the previous year which moves the club up to sixth in size in the state. He revealed that during the year ending Nov. 1, 1939, the club had turned over $353,651 in license fees to the state.

There were 250 at the dinner. Highlight of the entertainment program was Andrw A. Trimble, Cleveland, whose marked resemblence to the late Will Rogers brought him many interesting experiences.

The banquet and entertainment committee was composed of Ralph Moorhead, chairman; John Pierce and Carlton Fernyak. The year's nominating committee was George Blecker, Lydon H. Beam and Carlton Fernyak. Guests introduced included Col. Lynn Black, head of the state highway patrol; Cylon Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, and his assistant, Harold Culbert.

DAD SLAIN IN GROCERY, BOY, 13, TAKES UP FIGHT, SHOOTS GUNMAN

(By United Press)

CHICAGO — Vito Addante, 32, owner of a small grocery, was a hero in the eyes of his son, Pasquale, 13. He had been held up four times and each time had put up a fight.

A year ago he was fired on by a bandit who held up his store. Last Feb. 14, Wilbur Barnwell, colored, pointed two revolvers at him and demanded money. But Addante reached below the counter with a lightning move and came up shooting. Barnwell died later from his wounds.

Pasquale was sitting alone in the store last night when another bandit entered and demanded money.

"We haven't got much," Pasquale protested. "You can't take it."

The bandit, keeping his gun aimed at the boy, walked behind the counter and took $10 from the till. The elder Addante, who was in a rear room with his wife, Rose, 29, and two other children, Alfred, 12, and Lucy, 8, overheard the bandit. He came out of the room with a gun, of small caliber containing nine bullets, as the bandit started to leave. His wife and two other children were behind him.

He shouted to his wife, "push the kids on the floor," then fired one shot. The bandit turned and fired. The bullet struck Addante near the heart and he slumped to the floor, dead.

As he fell, Pasquale, a seventh grade pupil, took up the fight. He crawled to his father's body, picked up his gun, leveled it at the bandit and began firing.

Three times he pressed the trigger. One bullet found its mark. The bandit, shouting with with pain, stumbled into the street. He turned and fired two shots which went wild. The boy ran after him and fired four more shots. Two more bullets struck the bandit as he fled.

A few minutes later the gunman appeared at Provident hospital for medical aid. There was a commotion outside the emergency room. The bandit realized his victim was being brought in.

"I've got to go," he shouted. He fled down a corridor and escaped. Police squads immediately began combing the district for him.

AUTOIST FINED

Admits Careless, Reckless Charge After Other Count Is Dropped.

Pleading guilty in municipal court yesterday to a charge of careless and reckless driving after charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol had been dismissed, W. C. Beattie, 475 Shepherd road, was fined $35 and costs.

The charges were reduced on the recommendation of City Solicitor Marion D. Ward, who told the court "although the defendant was intoxicated, the evidence failed to show it impaired his driving."

Beattie was arrested Nov. 4 by police who accused him of driving the wrong way on West Luther place, a one-way street.

GERMANS SINK BRITISH TANKER

Long Hunted Pocket Ship Scores Again, Paper Says.

LONDON — (INS)—The German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer sank the British tanker Africa Shell off Portugal's East African colony of Mozambique, a Reuters dispatch from Lourenco Marquez reported today.

The paper said members of the Africa Shell's crew identified the Admiral Scheer from a photograph.

After sinking the British freighter Clement off Brazil last month, the battleship has been the quarry in a widespread search by British warships.

BUND LEADER'S WIFE TO TAKE STAND MONDAY

Seeks to Combat Testimony He Associated With Two Other Women.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Having attempted through Mayor LaGuardia, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and others of New York's official family to establish that Fritz Kuhn is a persecuted individual, the bund leader's counsel will next present evidence alleged to establish that the sharp-eyed fuehrer is no romanticist.

As Kuhn's trial for forgery and larceny from the German-American bund stood recessed today for the week-end, his counsel announced plans to call Mrs. Fritz Kuhn to the stand Monday.

Her appearance would be in the nature of a defense offset to the state's linking of Kuhn's name with those of Mrs. Florence Camp and Mrs. Virginia Cogswell.

Mrs. Cogswell in an interview on her arrival in New York declared that she used her friendship with Kuhn to obtain information about the German-American bund for the United States government.

In evidence are three affectionate telegrams from Kuhn to Mrs. Camp and testimony that his telephone bills ran high while she was on the west coast.

There is also testimony placing Kuhn in the hotel room of Mrs. Cogswell at one o'clock on a September morning and addition testimony that Kuhn paid a $60 doctor's bill for her.

The defense would use Mrs. Kuhn to testify that she lives and trusts her husband.

Mayor LaGuardia left the witness stand without having answered a question when the court ruled that the testimony which the defense hoped to bring from the mayor would not be admissable. Several other official witnesess passed through the witness box in the same manner.

HUNTER DIES IN CROSSING CRASH

body was taken to the Fink funeral home in Willard.

The accident occurred about 7:35 a. m. at an unprotected crossing on route 224. The southbound train was en route to Newark and reaches Mansfield at 8:20 a. m. It had left Willard at 7:25 a. m. and was delayed about 15 minutes by the accident.

The four men were en route to the Charles Kirkwood farm west of Willard to hunt.

Albert B. Fountin, 55, of Newport, Mich., was arrested last night by state highway patrolmen after the truck he was driving collided with an automobile at the junction of routes 96 and 178 six miles east of Shelby, injuring C. M. Heuberger, 49, of Shenandoah.

Patrolmen said Fountin failed to observe a stop sign at the intersection. He posted $100 bond and will be arraigned Monday morning in municipal court in Mansfield. Heuberger had leg and head injuries, but he was not hurt seriously.

Also cited for careless and reckless driving was Ben F. Dennis, 19, of R. D. 1, Sullivan, whose car went into a ditch and turned over at 12:05 a. m. today on route 224 two miles east of Ruggles in Ashland county.

Graham Schultz of Nova, a passenger in the car, suffered head and face lacerations and was taken to the New London hospital. Dennis and four other persons in the car escaped injury.

Dennis was to be arraigned this afternoon before Justice of Peace J. H. Armstrong at Ashland.

Not That It Matters

These Ideas Aren't Half Bad if We Really Want to Keep Out of Current War

—By JANE WILLIAMS

IN THIS week's issue of Liberty is an article by Frederick L. Collins which proposes a five-point plan to keep us out of war. Proposed half-jestingly, the author is serious when he insists his plan actually would keep America on her side of the fence—if we were willing to pay the price.

Consider, briefly, his five points:

First, force members of congress who vote for war to join the army at once. Second, deport foreign propagandists or intern them if they are citizens. Third, make manufacturers of war materials work without profit in case of war. Fourth, rob war of its glory by abolishing all decorations, stripes and other insignia. Fifth, send the old men to do the dirty work and conserve American youth in which lies the future of the nation.

* * *

MOST important of these five points, it seems to me—that is, from a preventive standpoint—is the second one. The country is alive with propagandists all ready; speakers from foreign nations who tell only one side of a story and who seek to implant fear in American minds; our own citizens who are so biased in their opinions one way or another that they would like to see America take sides in the war; and high up national officials who indiscreetly "pop off" on every occasion.

Collins suggests that all members of the president's official family, including himself, refrain from comments on the war by way of radio, press or lecture platform, and that all official United States "publicity bureaus" and "information sources" be abolished, leaving the press to get its own material, unhampered and uncolored by "official views."

In other words, if we have to take sides in this war, let's insist on taking this side of the Atlantic.

* * *

* * *

TALKED to Constance Bennett in Cleveland the same day an announcement was made that Hollywood had paid Louis Bromfield $75,000 for the use of his title "Here Today, Gone Tomorrow," without including the stories of the volume in the sale. Just the title, mind you, which isn't even original since it is an old catch phrase. I asked her if she thought the announcement fact or publicity fiction.

"Buying a title for $75,000 isn't at all improbable in Hollywood," she said. "A studio might even pay that price and never use the title. A studio paid Lillian Hellman $150,000 for 'The Children's Hour,' but the story was changed beyond recognition and the title used was 'We Three.' Yes, I'm sure they would have paid Louis for his title—and when the picture's made it may be released as 'Always On The Move'."

* * *

I HAVE a feeling that the word "cute" is a thorn in the flesh of 21-year-old Jackie Coogan. It is a word that is constantly chucked at the boy, not only by sentimental women who insist on reminding him that he was the "cutest thing" 18 years ago, but by unfeeling fellow workers. Some one in Mansfield had an old photo of Jackie taken when he played "The Kid" and it was sent up to him to be autographed between acts of his show Thursday night.

Two of the players, looking over his shoulder, chorused derisively: "Migawd, wasn't he cute?" And young Coogan laughed, but it obviously was in self defense. "I suppose," he said, "that I'll have to kill somebody before I can make 'em understand I've grown up."

I can't think of a much worse handicap for a boy.

I'D RATHER be a newspaper writer than a concert pianist. Because I don't have to practice before I work. When Kirk Ridge came home for three days before his Tuesday night concert in Mansfield, he spent 30 hours in practice—ten hours a day. And after having given 56 lessons in piano at Syracuse university during the week before coming home.

But I begin to see why I didn't develop into a great pianist after having taken 17 lessons in my childhood.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Interprets 'Inside Story' Of Fight Between Maury Maverick, Texas Official

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

SAN ANTONIO—Maury Maverick, Mr. New Deal in this section, is supposed to go to trial on the 27th of the month on a charge of buying the votes of a number of members of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union in the campaign of last summer in which he was elected mayor.

This is what it is all about:

Both Maverick and John Shook, the prosecutor, are members of old Texas families, and no member of the D. A. R. is more vain of her lineage than these two Texans are of theirs.

The name of Maverick is a place name in town. Maurys branch of the family turned up poor in his generation after a long spell of easy going on the profit taken from the increase in the price of land, and he is broke now and dependent on his salary of $8,000 a year.

Shook's father and grandfather were local judges, and he and Maverick went to school together and entered politics at the same time, so that fiery Texan stuff about Maverick out of Washington didn't impress Shook and may have stimulated his desire to bat Maury's ears down.

* * *

Shook claims to have evidence that on a trip to New York Maury got from David Dubinsky, the president of the garment workers—who is no Communist, incidentally — a promise of a campaign contribution. He will undertake to show that Dubinsky did send a check for $1,000, payable to a third person, and that this person cashed it and gave the money to Maverick.

At this point, says he, the union was cautioned that the transaction might violate the election laws, but, nevertheless, the next day Maverick cashed his own check for $200 in half dollars and gave the money to the union.

The tax is $1.50, and Shook says he can prove that Maverick offered to pay 50 cents toward the poll taxes of members who were unable to pay their own.

Without discussing the purpose of the poll tax, it will be seen that among people making $7 a week and, until lately, as little as $2 a week it amounts to annulments of the right to vote.

From Shook's remarks on the structure of his case I draw a suspicion that some of Maverick's friends on the labor side have been squealing against the one man who has shown some effective interest in this dreadful poverty. The offense is a felony, and, considering the shape of things, it is not difficult to understand why Maverick has become a political misanthrope.

Red Cross Drive Has 2 Weeks More to Go; 45 Names Added To 100 Per Cent List.

With two weeks of the Red Cross Roll Call still ahead of them, few workers have turned in reports on memberships and only two have completed their precincts, campaign leaders said today.

Mrs. Paul Hauserman was the first worker out of about 500 to reach her precinct quota and yesterday Mrs. N. A. Pluck reported her quota of $65 topped and her precinct completed.

The list of concerns who enrolled 100 per cent continued to grow, however, with 45 new names added today, making a total of 106. The latest 100 per cent groups are:

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1939.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and check your light bulbs to make sure that none is burned out.

A movement is now on foot to restore the old-time stand-up bars in drinking places—as too many drinkers at tables are reported to be sitting tight.

"President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving," as it has become popularly known, is to be observed next Thursday in twenty-five states, including Ohio—residents of other states prefer to be thankful a week later.

Big Holiday Trade Forecast

WITH all signs pointing to continuance of employment gains through the remainder of the year, at least, it is also predicted that holiday business, which will be starting in another week or two, will be the biggest experienced in a number of years.

"National prosperity week," says a recent item, "will begin December 4 with disbursement of $350,000,000 to more than 7,000,000 Christmas Club depositors."

It is estimated that the average member of a Christmas Savings club will have about $50 to spend—the total being larger than in any year since 1933.

And that will be only a fraction of the holiday spending, for other millions of persons will loosen purse strings and delve into savings and checking accounts for gift-buying and to meet personal and family needs.

Santa Claus is a great influence in putting money into circulation—and it is money in motion that marks the difference between depression and prosperity.

Danger From Within

THE EXTENT to which communities, large and small, are dependent on the good behavior of individuals, is exemplified by the revelation of an engineer that New York City would be one of the easiest places in the world to tie up by sabotage. Most of the metropolis, he explains, is served by four major generators, with such complex mechanism that one man could put one or more of them out of commission with little effort.

Such an interruption of power would affect street lighting, homes, refrigerator, oil burners, radio and newspaper presses. Any large area with concentrated power would be in the same danger.

The remedy, this engineer suggests, is to have more but smaller generators, with separate facilities for crowded blocks and more private installations. He considers the war department's reported plan to develop a national inter-city hookup of power plants as dangerous from this point of view. Decentralization of power facilities would be safer, he believes.

It is an interesting point, particularly since it implies that much harm could be done to American cities without the aid of invading armies or attack from the air.

When there is a more general understanding of such dangers there may be less insistence that unrestricted liberties be accorded alien agitators, and more whole-hearted public support of activities of the Dies committee in its efforts to reveal the leadership and intent of subversive movements in this country.

Stage Show Fails To Attract

THE GENERATION of older Mansfielders, who recall the excellent stage productions brought to the Opera House around the turn of the century, and for a couple of decades thereafter, will regret that present-day patronage of such attractions is not sufficient to justify continuance of an experiment made this week.

As a pleasing comedy, "What a Life" offered everything that might be expected by theater patrons accustomed to going to larger cities "to see a good show." In size of stage, acoustic properties and seating accommodations, the Madison theater serves adequately for legitimate attractions, but the small attendance Thursday night tends to discourage any further efforts by the management to bring an occasional road show here—which is unfortunate, as Mansfield is large enough city to support a widely varied entertainment program, including at least a half dozen high class legitimate attractions each season.

Most Disastrous Year

PEOPLE forget disasters easily, especially if they themselves have not been affected directly. That is why it comes as something of a surprise to learn that, in the year ending last June 30, Red Cross help was required in the largest number of disasters recorded in any twelve-month period of its history.

There were sixty tornadoes, twenty-five fires, thirty-one floods, ten cloudbursts, four epidemics, three forest fires, fifteen wind and hail storms, and nine disasters of other types, all of serious enough proportions to need special relief work. There were 217 such catastrophes in the United States or their possessions. Chilean earthquake victims and many war refugees were also on that long list of merciful service.

Disaster relief includes repair and rebuilding of homes, replacement of household goods and clothing, mass shelter and feeding, prevention of epidemics, replacement of equipment needed for jobs (such as boats and tackle for fishermen), and a host of other things. This record year demanded "the most unusual rehabilitation programs" ever undertaken by the American Red Cross.

It's an exciting tale, in the making of which millions of Americans share by means of their membership dollars.

Dewey Found the Word

TESTIFYING at the trial of Fritz Kuhn, German-American bund leader, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey referred to Kuhn as a "nuisance"—which is about as appropriate a word as could have been chosen.

A "nuisance" is the sort of person who is ordinarily afflicted with nutty notions that he insists on unloading on everyone he meets, and varies only in small ways from the type known as a "pest."

Ordinarily a "nuisance" or a "pest" does not extend his annoying proclivities beyond his own community, although an occasional one attains state, or even national, recognition as such—as in the case of bund-leader Kuhn.

After having been supposed to be dead and buried, New York's Tammany tiger is again stirring ominously.

Some of those novels labeled "provocative" turn out to be no more than provoking.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Leland Hayward, the agent, says it happens about once a year on Broadway that some unknown, playing a comparatively minor stage role, knocks the eyes out of the movie scouts and gets the big companies bidding against themselves.

If that's true, it's already happened for this season. The rest of the young hopefuls might as well fold their tents.

Charles Lang, a young baseball player with two strikes on him; an actor in spite of the fact that he didn't want to be; a lad who got his first reading on a fluke and then actually fell into his job—a minor role in an unsuccessful play—is going to Hollywood for big money.

* * *

CHARLIE, who reminds one a little of Henry Fonda, comes from Three Bridges, N. J. (Pop. 306), and his first Broadway role was that of a lovesick young rustic in "Pastoral," which probably has gone by the boards now because the critics kicked it all over the place.

Drifting through a dozen jobs, like any young man who's not quite sure where he's going, Charlie got as far as the Bench of the Brooklyn Dodgers, but never to the pitcher's mound. He found semi-pro night baseball more profitable and was at that when he accompanied a friend one day to the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. He was merely amused when a staff veteran there insisted that he had acting possibilities. He says it was just lack of sales resistence that resulted in his taking a term course. Acting bored him, he says, but he kept on for awhile mainly because of his friend and because it did not interfere with his baseball.

It was the same friend who applied to Miss Helen Bonfils and George Somnes, the producers, for the job in "Pastoral." Charlie accompanied him, was waiting in the anteroom when Somnes walked out, sized him up and said: "Let's go over to the theater. I want you to read a part."

* * *

LANG'S protests that he wasn't even looking for a job availed nothing and he was on the stage, reading, before he had time to think.

"Come here," called Somnes, from a seat in the orchestra. Charlie took him seriously, stepped over the apron onto a thin grillwork that covers the Henry Miller theater orchestra pit, crashed through to the pit's cement floor.

"When I came to," Charlie says, "I was signing a contract."

That's about all, except that "Pastoral" opened. Gleefully busy tearing it to pieces, the critics paid no attention to Lang. But the talent scouts did.

At last report, offers had reached $25,000 a year and two studios still were bidding. Who gets him and for what is up to Hayward.

Charlie just shrugs, looks puzzled, and says: "I don't understand it. Guess I'm just too far away from Three Bridges."

Nazi Controversy Delays Action

—By MORGAN M. BEATTY

WASHINGTON — The story persists in responsible international circles that the German high command has definitely split into moderate and extremist wings, with the moderates on top—up to now.

The moderates are supposed to be holding out to the bitter end against invasion of neutral Belgium or Holland. They not only fear the impact of such a maneuver on world public opinion, but also they are wondering if Russia might not change friends in the middle of the melee—and hem the fatherland about with the strongest military trap ever devised by man.

These moderates are also advising Hitler he can't expect to flank the Maginot Line in 1939 or 1940 any more than the German army could flank the Allies in 1914.

They're telling him the net result would be to achieve nothing more than submarine and air bases closer to the British Isles, at the expense of many thousands of lives. Meanwhile, the German army's fighting front would be doubled in length to nearly 400 miles, from the Swiss border to Ostend, Belgium, and half of it would be unfortified.

BUT what's more interesting is the reason given for the moderates' strong position in Nazi inner circles. Here's the way the story goes:

When Hitler and his army command were discussing Poland in August, it was generally agreed that a blitzkrieg should be feasible and—barring rain—successful.

But the moderates advised against it. They said it would draw the British into war. They reminded the fuehrer that even his No. 2 man—Hermann Goering—did not want to fight the British.

Incidentally, Goering told a famous American shortly before the war started that the German blunder in 1914 was to put the British empire in a position to oppose the Reich. "That," said Goering, "can't happen again."

But the Nazis apparently were convinced that the British would not fight in 1939. So, the story goes, they blithely promised the moderate army chieftains that they wouldn't have to fight on the Western Front. And on that basis, Germany invaded Poland.

* * *

NOW the Nazis seem to be on the spot. They apparently have agreed not to fight on the westwall. And Herr Hitler, apparently, is keeping his faith with the moderates—so far.

That leaves the old-line military caste on top of the heap, despite the mysterious death in Poland of their former commander-in-chief, Colonel-General Werner von Fritsch. The general had been demoted to retirement only a few months earlier because he failed to keep step with the fuehrer.

All this grapevine material seems to agree with the facts about the Western Front. It explains why the Germans have moved 31 divisions—a complete army—into position on the Belgian and Dutch borders. And it also explains, in part, why these troops have not yet gone into action. It explains why the Germans have not yet used the full force of their tremendous air arm against the French army.

Either one of these moves would mean that war would be on in earnest. And the moderates don't want war to get going. According to the grapevine, they still hope some way can be found to call the whole thing off by spring.

Disturbing Noises.

New York hotel men have been taking quiet soundings on one of country's leading nuisances.

It is noise, needless noise, which engages the crusading ardor of the hotel men—noise which keeps guests tossing wild-eyed and wretched hours after they place the "Do Not Disturb" sign on the door and retire for what is farcially known to modern civilization as a good night's sleep. The hotel association has been polling hotel guests and complete returns list the worst noises in the order of their irritation.

With admirable discernment the visiting delegates have placed automobile horns at the head of the list. The rest of the noises range from shrieking sirens to soap box orators. The sounds encompass such disturbers of the peace as loose manhole covers, screaming brakes and loud speakers, mechanical and otherwise.—Newark Advocate.

Listen, World!

One Man's Choice.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON once said, "As soon as prudence has begun to grow up in the brain, like a dismal fungus, it finds its expression in a paralysis of generous acts."

Prudence—a dismal fungus? That's a startling notion, isn't it? All our lives we've heard Prudence extolled as one of the soundest virtues. And surely R. L. S. should have been its enthusiastic advocate. Fragile from birth, hounded by the long drawn agony of tuberculosis, he had need to guard every impulse that might drain his scanty energy and dwindling time. If ever Prudence was indicated for any mortal, it was for him. Yet he despised it . . . and squandered himself with the magnificent recklessness of a god.

"Like a god"—perhaps his secret lies in that very phrase. He knew, almost from the first, that he was doomed. How then should he spend the few years he had? Plainly it was up to each man to make his choice. What should his be? To live like a miser, haggling, hoarding his feeble store of strength? Yes, he could do that. He could be careful. But what would happen if he were? He'd miss all the best things . . . the great, soul-stirring dreams and adventures . . . the red-blooded rebellions . . . the whole perilous, passionate swing of human contact.

He'd miss all these if he were prudent, because these things COST. They cost, terrifically, not only in money and time, but in that which was infinitely more precious — energy and emotion, safety and serenity. You couldn't LIVE and GIVE without constantly risking yourself. That's why prudent people couldn't possibly be generous or joyous people . . . it was too great a risk.

NO MATTER HOW NOBLE THE ACT MIGHHT BE WHICH YOU CONTEMPLATED, THERE WAS ALWAYS A SOUND ARGUMENT AGAINST IT—FOR THE PRUDENT PERSON.

But you didn't have to be a prudent person. You might choose quite a different life for yourself. You might say, "To hell with prudence! To hell with all these shabby, shackling, man-made considerations. I'm going to die some day anyhow. No matter how cautious I am, my money will go and my days will end—somehow. So why not live while the living's good. I may have to die as a mortal, but at least, I CAN LIVE LIKE A GOD! I CAN LIVE AS THOUGH I HAD ENDLESS AEONS BEFORE ME . . . ENDLESS STORES OF LOVE AND JOY, FURY AND FAITH, TO SHARE AND RISK!

So R. L. S. faced his fate and made his choice . . . and chose to be . . . A GAMBLING GOD! And, by that choice, crammed so much red-blooded life, love and laughter into his few years that his name is immortal. Remember what he wrote for his last resting place—?

"Under the wide and starry sky
"Dig the grave and let me lie.
"Glad did I live, and gladly die
"And I laid me down with a will.
"This be the verse you grave for me:
"Here he lies where he longed to be:
"Home is the sailor, home from the sea.
"And the hunter home from the hill."

There was no prudence in that last gallant carol! No whining over the mistakes he had made or the losses he had endured . . . no pious advice against following his reckless trail. Glad he had lived and glad he had died, not as a cripple mewling over his fate . . . not as a miser, hoarding his treasure . . . but as SAILOR and HUNTER . . . AND RECKLESS, GAMBLING GOD!

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

THAT rumbling you heard along the political front this week meant that not even Europe's war could long distract America's attention from the 1940 battle over here.

Most interesting question, still, was whether President Roosevelt would run again. Precedent was against it. But, said California's ex-Senator William G. McAdoo, just home from Washington: "The third term tradition is mere dogma, anyway. We don't have to observe it unless we want to."

No first-string Democrat had talked like that, up to then, since Agriculture Secretary Wallace drew a White House spanking last month for violating the political truce decreed by Mr. Roosevelt during the recent special session of congress.

"A number of outstanding Democrats," the Californian added, believed the president could, should and would be renominated and reelected. Not backers of Vice President Garner. He's in the race "to win," they announced, no matter who else runs.

Campaign's On.

With possible Republican runners bunched near the starting line, Washington wisemen split their money among a baker's half-dozen—

Glamorous Thomas E. Dewey, New York racket buster, polished up for near-future delivery several speeches squeezed off the air during October's neutrality debate.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, kept his name in the papers by advocating a short Republican campaign, to start about Sept. 1 and run at top speed until election day.

Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft headed toward the southwest on a speaking tour: "By 1940, it will be perfectly apparent that . . . the people . . . cannot trust the power of peace and war to the Democratic party for four years."

Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, began barnstorming on the west coast, and supporters of North Dakota's Senator Gerald P. Nye were reported busy on his behalf in the north-central states.

From the northwest came talk of a dinner at Spokane, Wash., next month to launch a boom for Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon.

Congress Is Coming.

Between now and election comes congress.

With jobs of all the house and a third of the senate at stake next fall, members will be eager to speed through the session that begins Jan. 3, and get home to their campaigning. Democrats, moreover, will hesitate to tackle, right before election, issues that endanger the touch-me-not party peace born of their near-unanimity on neutrality revision in the special session.

One such issue is the administration's reciprocal trade agreements program. Executive authority to conclude such pacts without specific senate okay each time, expires next June 12. Some western Democrats side with Republicans against renewing the authority, and some friends of the program say they'd rather let it lapse than force a fight that might split the party anew.

At Home

Maritime Muddle.

America's new neutrality act makes it "unlawful for any American vessel to carry any passengers or any articles or materials" to countries at war or, "except under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed," into or through combat areas so defined by the President. Can U. S. ships, thus barred from many north Atlantic runs, get around those restrictions by hauling down the Stars & Stripes and running up a foreign flag?

When the U. S. Lines sought permission last week to switch several ships to Panamanian registry, the federal Maritime Commission first indicated it would approve the move. But State Secretary Hull protested the proposal as a violation of the spirit of the neutrality law. And the President, after ordering a decision held up pending further investigation, indicated this week that he agreed with Secretary Hull.

Demand and Supply.

Twenty-five states — including Texas, Colorado and Mississippi—will join President Roosevelt in observing Thanksgiving next Thursday. Twenty-six—again including Texas, Colorado and Mississippi—will follow tradition by waiting a week. Despite this duplication of demand for turkeys, market conditions indicated this week, the price will be slightly lower than last year. Reason: A record crop, officially estimated at close to 32,000,000 birds.

Pay the Players?

Chicago University, once a power in the football-famous Big Ten conference, scored 12 points against opponents' 262 in its first six games this year. Reason, sports writers said: Deflation of intercollegiate athletics in 10 years under classics - conscious President Robert M. Hutchins. Solution, students voted (859 to 277) this week in a poll conducted by a campus magazine: Subsidization of players, "providing they could meet scholastic requirements."

Counting the Cost.

Participation in 19 months of the first World war cost this country $22,000,000,000—not counting $12,000,000,000 spent for veterans, and $14,000,000,000 still due from European nations on their war debts. Involvement in another, the National Economy League figured this week, would cost at least $30,000,000,000 a year.

Mail Goes Through.

Charles R. Lane, of Haverstraw, N. Y., received this week a post card mailed to him 43 years ago. Haverstraw is the hometown of Postmaster General Farley.

Abroad

Finland Balks.

Russia, after snatching half of fallen Poland from under Nazi noses, covered the right flank of her new salient into western Europe by swiftly extracting land, sea and air bases from Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. Then, six weeks ago, Reds invited Finland into their parlor.

But Finland, with influential friends abroad, proved no such push-over as her Baltic sisters. Twice last month the talks were interrupted while the men from Helsinki went home to consult their government anew, and this week the negotiations were suspended indefinitely.

* * *

Forces Reduced.

Various western powers have maintained garrisons in North China since an outbreak of anti-foreign violence, called the Boxer rebellion, in 1900. This week, "for reasons of military convenience arising from the conflict in Europe," Britain and France announced reduction of theirs to forces sufficient merely to protect property and maintain order in their concessions — notably those at Tientsin, under Japanese blockade since June.

The United States—with some 1,500 men at Tientsin, Peiping and Shanghai—indicated it had no intention of following the Anglo-French lead.

People

Death of a Justice.

After 17 years on the U. S. Supreme Court, Associate Justice Pierce Butler, 73, died Thursday morning. He had been ailing for several months.

A former Minnesota corporation lawyer, he became noted in Washington for his decisions against early New Deal laws and later, when pro-New Dealers had gained a majority in the court, for his dissents from decisions okaying such legislation.

His death set off immediate speculation on whom the president would name as his fifth appointee to the high bench.

Dickinson's Formula.

Michigan's 80 - year - old Gov. Luren D. Dickinson, critic of "high life" society and advocate of prayer in settlement of labor disputes, now has a suggestion for solving the relief problem: Let charity receive the savings, during the two weeks following Thanksgiving, from a 50% cut in cigaret consumption by "all mothers who smoke" and a 5% reduction in drinking by "fathers, mothers and children indulging in intoxicating liquors."

* * *

Late Returns.

A canvass of returns from Salt Lake City's Nov. 7 mayoral election completed this week, showed auto-racer Ab Jenkins the winner by 51 out of 43,203 votes cast. He ran on a street-safety platform.

Also won: A seat on New York's city council, by Alfred E. Smith, jr., 38, son of the man in the brown derby.

Science

Toward Better Goats.

"It's no fable that goats will eat almost anything," says a livestock expert at Alabama's Tuskegee Institute. "Briars, grambles, honeysuckle vines, paper—it's all fodder for a goat." At least for poor farmers, he believes, goats therefore are a better bet than milk cows. And by mating a pedigreed billy with scrub nannies, he's evolving a strain of goats that he expects to produce three to six quarts of milk a day, 10 months of the year, with practically no care or purchased feed.

* * *

Oil Gauge.

The earth, like 'most everything else, is charged with electricity. And this charge varies with the soil's composition. Underground oil and gas deposits, for instance, carry a heavier charge than ordinary rock or sand.

So an Oklahoma oil engineer has worked out a system by which, from watching a meter connected with the bit of his rotary drill, a driller can tell the instant he hits pay dirt.

About Hair Turning White.

—By DR. CLENDENING

AN INQUIRY from a nurse in training says: "Our class in physiology is studying the hair and its care. The question we are discussing is: 'Is it possible for the hair to turn white overnight, and, if so, what causes it?'"

There is no certain and authentically reported case of the hair turning white overnight. Byron, in the "Prisoner of Chillon," is the source of the common belief, but Byron was not a dependable pathologist. His statement about the hair turning was:

"My hair is gray, but not with years,
Nor grew it white
In a single night,
As men's have grown from sudden fears."

There is the case of a clergyman in Nottingham, reported in the Memoirs of the Medical Society of London, whose daughter at the age of 13 experienced a change from jet blackness of hair to white in a single night, but this was confined to a spot on the back of the head one and one-half inches in length.

Distressing News.

Bichat, an eminent French physician of the early nineteenth century, had a personal acquaintance whose hair became almost entirely gray as a result of some distressing news that reached him.

Byron had reference to Ludovico Sforza, an Italian nobleman.

Dr. Dewess reported a case of a woman whose hair turned gray in a single hour between visits.

The cause of gray hair is said to be the formation of air bubbles in the hair shaft. I do not know what the proof of this is, but in 1882, in the Canada Journal of Medical Science, was reported a case of sudden graying of hair due to business worry. The microscope showed a great many air vesicles in the hair shaft.

The Boston Medical and Surgical Journal for 1851 reported a case of a man, 30 years old, whose hair was scared white by a grizzly bear.

Another case of the hair turning gray was that of a Californian in a gambling camp who placed his entire savings of $1,100 on the turn of a card. The next day his hair was perfectly white, but there is no record of how the card turned out.

Louis, of Bavaria, learned of the innocence of his wife, whom he had put to death on a suspicion of her infidelity, and his hair turned white almost immediately, but this was in 1294 and the records are somewhat mixed.

De Schweinitz reported in 1889 that the hair of the upper eyelid of a patient turned white in a week. This is the last report that we have.

THEATERS

"First Love."

In "First Love," the movie which opens today at the Madison theater, Deanna Durbin is presented in a more mature role than any she has ever attempted. In this picture Deanna encounters her first love affair, a boy-and-girl romance between herself and Robert Stack, a screen newcomer in the role of a young bachelor who is the object of the affections of Deanna and of Helen Parrish, who plays the role of her snobbish cousin. In this romance Deanna receives her first screen kiss—and her first proposal of marriage. In the supporting cast are two screen-stars of bygone days, Leatrice Joy and Jack Mulhall, both of whom were well known to theater-goers of years past.

* * *

"Elizabeth and Essex."

"The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex," a production in technicolor starring Bette Davis and Errol Flynn, is the attraction at the Ohio theater the first half of this week, opening today. This picture, which had a preview here a week ago, was enthusiastically received by the audience at that time. In this picture Bette Davis is cast as the self-willed, vain and domineering Queen Elizabeth, torn between her love of England and its people and her overwhelming love for the handsome and dashing young Earl of Essex. Flynn as Essex has precisely the type of role in which he is at his best, that of a handsome, swashbuckling hero, as victorious in love as he is in war. Also in the cast are Olivia de Havilland, Donald Crisp and Alan Hale.

* * *

"Suzanne of the Mounties."

"Suzanne of the Mounties," starring Shirley Temple, is the principal feature opening Sunday at the Ritz theater. In this, one of Shirley's best pictures, she is cast as the little orphan whom members of the Royal Mounted Police adopt as their mascot. In this story of Frontier life Shirley is supported by Randolph Scott. Sharing the bill with Shirley Temple are Loretta Young, Warner Baxter, Binnie Barnes and Cesar Romero in "Wife, Husband and Friend," a story which concerns the misunderstandings which result when a lovely wife who has loads of money, a beautiful home and a grand husband, decides that she wants one thing more. A career as a singer.

* * *

"A Star Is Born."

Fredric March is Janet Gaynor's leading man in the Park theater's offering Sunday of "A Star Is Born," the story of a girl who goes to Hollywood seeking stardom, finds the odds against her, but wins success in spite of the obstacles. This picture, which is in technicolor, includes scenes of many of Hollywood's outstanding gathering places, including the Santa Anita race track, the Trocadero, Grauman's Chinese Theater and many other places of interest. Others in the cast are Adolphe Menjou, May Robson, Andy Devine and Lionel Stander. This feature is being shown along with the comedy, "Unexpected Father," starring Mischa Auer and Baby Sandy.

* * *

"Four Girls In White."

The nursing profession is dramatized in the picture, "Four Girls in White," which starts Sunday at the Majestic. This feature, starring Florence Rice, Anna Rutherford, Una Merkel and Mary Howard is a companion piece to the popular "Men In White" of several years ago, and the more recent "Young Dr. Kildare." Others in the cast are Alan Marshall, Kent Taylor, Buddy Ebsen and Jessie Ralph. The other offering on this double-feature bill is Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell in "Fast and Loose," a sequel to the previous biblio-detective thriller, "Fast Company," in which Rosalind and Montgomery also starred.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, Nov. 19.

Sunday's horoscope holds testimonies of a contradictory nature. While there are auguries of happiness, success and much activity of a social interest, with much visiting, probably comradeship and courtship, or other sentimental relations, there also are signs of turmoil, strife and recklessness.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a productive and progressive year, with the fortunes favored and with many pleasant business and social contacts. But these may be put in jeopardy by rash, impetuous and ill-governed behavior. Moderation and restrain should permit the auspicious auguries to rule.

A child born on this day may be energetic, practical and have good creative abilities and fair ambitions, but it also may be tempestuous, passionate and wilful. Early direction and discipline would help a promising career.

For Monday, Nov. 20.

Monday's astrological forecast is for sudden and surprising developments. There may be unforeseen change, journeys or removals, with new matters and distant interests uppermost. And while there are favorable auguries, at the same time there are conflicting and adverse signs. Be cautious with business as well as private correspondence, and avert unhappy complications.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of unexpected change or adventure, involving new objectives, persons and environs. With caution and vigilance, trouble, trickery or fraud may be voided Social and domestic activities may give much pleasure. Be prepared for surprises in all affairs.

A child born on this day may be talented in unusual lines, with much originality and independence in thought and action. It may be fond of adventure and frequent change in residence and employment.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOLD UP AT THE START

When able to take two top tricks in the opponents' suit, average players seldom see any difference between taking the first and third, holding up on the second, and holding up on the first, taking the second and third. The first plan may wreck your whole No Trump game, by letting the partner of the suit-holder knock out one of your stoppers while the suit-holder's re-entries are undisturbed The second makes that dangerous man use up one of his side entries in order to knock out your second stopper, leaving him perhaps no other re-entry to bring in his suit after it is set up.

South bid 1-Heart here at both tables of a team game Each North answered with 2-Clubs. South bid 3-Diamonds and North 3-No Trumps. In each case East led the heart Q because of his side honors. One declarer took the trick and the other ducked it, the first therefore being set and the other making his contract.

Where the first trick was taken by the declarer with the heart K, he then led the club 10, West winning with the Q and leading the heart 9. East covered with the 10 and the A was held up, but on the next trick knocked out by the J. The club 8 was led from dummy to the J and A, and East then cashed two more hearts, beating declarer.

Where declarer ducked the heart Q, a second one was led to the K and then the club 10. West won this with the Q, but had no heart left to knock out the A, so tried the spade 7 to the K. Now the club 8 and the J fell to East's A, but his heart suit was not yet set up. Hopelessly he returned another heart to the A, but declarer got the rest of the tricks.

ELSIE CRABTREE'S lyric-inspiring knees, outlawed by the University of Nevada dean of women, were reinstated when the Wolf Pack band went on strike, the team itself threatened suicide and the school seemed certain not to keep.

And the crowds are packing the Wolf Pack stadium to determine, indirectly, the stability of the sophomore who said: "They are twin-dimpled darlings, white as the snow atop yon Kumiva peak." He spoke, he said, of Elsie's knees.

She is the Wolf Pack band's chief drum majorette—but far more than that, it seems, when her knees are considered. When Dean Margaret Mack ruled they must be curtailed with a long skirt, the entire study body revolted.

So the dean rectified her ruling. Elsie can again wear her breath-taking scanties and her hair-raising kilties, which go way, way above the knees; she must desist, however, from her acrobatic numbers, her usual nipups, splits and cartwheels. Elsie, the dean decreed, should keep her feet on the ground. Even if the sophomore males couldn't, eh, Margaret?

The Oklahoma University football team reached Missouri today with 50 suits of red flannel drawers and 50 rain slickers to protect the personnel in case it rains or gets cold. But Coach Tom Stidham confessed that he had no protection against Paul Christman.

YEA, OHIO!
From Yale to Chicago,
The Wolverine has tore;
But since that Zuppke Blitz Krieg

THEY SAY that Fritz Crisler has done an exceptionally fine job of selling Michigan to prep athletes with the result that the Wolverine school will continue to get its share of stars from now on. It must be kept in mind that such present luminaries as Kodros, Harmon, Evashevski, Kromer and others were already on hand when Crisler and his aides moved into Ann Arbor. THEY'LL BE THERE AGAIN NEXT YEAR. After that it will be entirely Crisler's material.

Barons Hope to Repeat In Hockey League

Champions of the International-American hockey loop, the popular Cleveland Barons, are favorites to cop the league tiara again this year. The Barons, who drew 250,000 fans to their home ice, the Cleveland Arena, last year, thus outdrawing three of the seven teams in the National league, hockey's major loop, have several new faces this year, including Leroy Goldsworthy, of Two Harbors, Minn., purchased from the New York Rangers, and Larry Molyneaux, the latter a veteran defense man. Old favorites back include Moe Roberts, with Cleveland since 1933, and Lorne Duguid, major league veteran.

Supplies to Travel; Bantams Stay Home

Beaver Falls, Pa., is the next stop for the travel-weary Automotive Supplies.

* * *

Early Sunday they will pack into a bus, hustle off to the Pennsylvania city and attempt to do something about winning a ball game from Beaver Falls.

* * *

Faced by the stiffest semi-pro competition in this part of the country, the Supplies have not fared as well as they did earlier this season.

"But we're on our way back," Coach Frank McMullen is telling the Supplies' followers.

WHILE the Automotive Supplies are in Beaver Falls, the Adams Bantams will take over their gridiron at Blue Goose field at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

The Mansfield bantamweight eleven will engage the Newark Lions, central Ohio district champion.

* * *

Coach Hank Richards of the Adams team saw the Newark club in action, and expects plenty of trouble for his eleven Sunday.

* * *

The Adams team has been idle for several weeks, but has kept in trim by playing a number of practice games, Richards said. The Mansfield lineup will be unchanged.

The Adamsmen will meet the Cleveland Skippies in a prelim to the Rams-Phillies game in Cleveland stadium Nov. 30.

Conn, Underweight, Eyes Pastor Bout After Whipping Lesnevich

Light-Heavy Champ Ready to Turn to Heavyweights After Mopping Up Last of Suitable Foes.

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK—(AP)—A shanty Irish kid who always says Mister and Sir to sportswriters, an outside middleweight who weighed 171¼ pounds in defending his light-heavyweight championship—that is Billy Conn, the Pittsburgh Adonis you'll soon see battling among the heavyweights and eventually against Champ Joe Louis.

By winning a 15-round decision over Gus Lesnevich in Madison Square Garden last night Conn just about mopped up all the suitable talent in his class and Manager Johnny Ray is remaining in town to talk business with Uncle Mike Jacobs.

* * *

Their talks may touch upon many things, but they're bound to come upon a possible heavyweight bout with Bicycling Bob Pastor sooner or later because Conn himself wants it. And it's a logical step toward the heavyweight heights that Conn and his manager have in mind.

* * *

Conn swarmed over Lesnevich for a $45,000 near capacity house last night. For three rounds he stalked his foe cautiously, taking meaningless punches that raised a rosy blush on his young, naked chest and had no other effect whatever.

Then he began taking the brakes off his darting left jab, the hook that time after time jarred the Cliffside, N. J., fighter to a standstill, and the right cross that never missed.

In the 11th and the 13th rounds he had Lesnevich dull-eyed, hanging, leaning, clinching, and couldn't finish him. The outcome never was in doubt, but it was the ineffectuality of these punches that caused Conn afterward to smile wryly and say:

* * *

"It was a stinkin' fight. I couldn't get going.

* * *

"But I'll say one thing. He took my punches better than anybody I ever fought. He's just as good as (Melio) Bettina, or any of the rest of the guys I've met. He never hurt me. But I had the feeling I never hurt him either."

Wrist Watches On Prize List

Winners In Mansfield Relays Next Year to Receive Timepieces.

THE most elaborate prize list ever awarded in an interscholastic track and field carnival will be offered in next year's Mansfield Relays.

Wrist watches, in addition to belt buckles and trophies, will be awarded to winners in the 14th edition of the nationally-famous track meet, which draws competitors from Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Michigan and Kentucky as well as Ohio.

* * *

Ned Brooks, who was recently elected general chairman of the Relays Citizens committee to succeed T. A. Scott, announced today that watches will be presented to individual as well as team relay winners.

* * *

Instead of numerals, the timepieces will have letters which will identify the event in which they were won.

Belt buckles, which were given for all three places in previous Relays, will be presented for the second and third places again this year, Brooks said.

Trophies will again be awarded to the high 10 teams in the battle of points.

* * *

Harry E. Mehock, director and founder of the track classic, said today that indications point to one of the largest entries in history for next year's event, which will be held Saturday, April 27.

Illinois Game Marks Farewell Appearance For 14 Ohio Seniors, Including Four Regulars

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Disregarded in pre-season calculations Ohio State's surprising Buckeyes bid for the Big Ten football championship today against the dangerous Illini eleven before 50,000 homecoming fans in Ohio stadium.

Overcast skies that hinted rain favored the heavier Ohio State aggregation which has relied upon power for most of its success in winning four consecutive conference starts this fall.

A soggy field and wet ball would handicap the gridiron magic with which Coach Bob Zuppke and the Illini have become famous for upsets, the latest being a 16 to 7 decision over Michigan two weeks ago. Illinois has won two and lost two games in conference play this fall.

* * *

An Ohio State victory coupled with a defeat to Iowa today would sew up the title for the Bucks while wins for both Ohio State and Iowa would assure at least a tie for the unbeaten Buckeyes.

* * *

Marriage Meddlers By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

He gave Dicky and Edith a puzzled look which held something of a leer in it.

"Old hometown folks?" he queried. "Or have you been two-timing me, and has the lady just found it out?"

Dicky turned upon him the frowning, intent face with which I have seen him plan an extermination campaign against troublesome mosquitoes. There was not fury in it, but there was extreme annoyance and contempt.

Dicky Is Curt.

"Sit down!" Dicky said with peremptory curtness. "And keep still!"

With the first instinct of his kind, the man began to bluster.

"Who's telling me?" he said. "You and how many more like you?"

Dicky took one step toward him, and there was something suddenly in his eyes which gave me my particular phobia of ice down my spine.

"Sit down!" he said again, and though his voice was still low, this time the words were audible beyond his table.

Without a second glance at him, Dicky turned away from him and spoke to the woman again.

"As I was saying when I was interrupted," he quoted, "I think we would better sit down and discuss this little matter, if not amicably, at least peaceably."

She did not answer him, and I guessed that for the moment she was incapable of speech. Dicky put Edith into one of the two unoccupied chairs at the table, and took the other one himself.

"Would you like something to drink?" he asked Edith courteously, but she shook her head. He spoke to the other two with equal courtesy but with a stinging inflection that made the woman start as if she were a roweled colt.

"What will you have?" he asked, and I saw the man's face brighten. But the woman was made of sterner stuff.

"Not a drop this way, you hound," she said. "But after I get away from here, I'll drink a toast to what's coming to you when you finally get through with your play-acting."

"If I am not mistaken," Edith Fairfax struck in, "and I do not think I am, you will be so busy when you get out of here in trying to keep out of jail that you will have no time to drink evil toasts."

For an instant the woman was silent. Then she said with a touch of bravado:

"Just what are you trying to broadcast in such a big voice?"

Edith looked at her steadily for a long second.

"Simply this," she said slowly, "I know every detail of the very ingenious blackmail plot you have concocted against Mr. Graham. I know that there isn't a shred of truth in the whole thing, but that you have been able to distort perfectly innocent actions on his part, generous gestures toward one of your own family, until you have a set-up which might well ruin him if it were made public.

"That woman's going to burst if she doesn't let off steam in a hurry," Lillian whispered, and when I looked at the woman listening to Edith, I agreed with my friend's dictum. The woman's face was mottled with rage and astonishment, but there was another emotion mirrored in her eyes, and that was comprehension. Suddenly she threw up her head defiantly and flexed the fingers of her right hand as if she were preparing to grasp an unexpected — and welcome weapon.

"Why! you—you," she stammered furiously, but Edith had not finished speaking, and went implacably on.

"It may also interest you to know," she said, "that I was hidden in a closet in the magazine office last night, when you and your—friend—here, were there, that I heard every word you said, enough to send you to jail for a thousand years, and that I found the secret cache where you very injudiciously left certain proofs needed in your plot. I was very glad to get possession of them."

"I should think you would be, Edith Fairfax," the woman fairly spat at her, "seeing that you gave me the idea of all this, yourself."

CHAPTER XXIX.

The train was hot, the train was pokey; there was no sense in stopping at all these crossroads. She frowned out the window at the stalwart mountains so maddeningly calm-looking, actually belittling her fuming worries.

But now she discovered there was more than one reason to account for the way she was feeling. Her mother hadn't caused quite all this irritation. It concerned going back to a place where she might again encounter Tom—Tom and Eva. Were they still at Palm Springs?

Rita's conscience pricked her when she thought of Tom. The last time she saw him he'd been trying to work out something. Of course, it had all been very strange. Just the same, she could have helped him, couldn't she? But no, she had run away and hidden herself when, if she had talked things over sensibly with Delores, she might have stayed on at the Springs, and attempted to be helpful to Tom as well as to Delores.

But there were Eva and that cousin Harry of hers: they were bound to be in the way. Oddly enough, Tom seemed to thrive on that arrangement. So—how could anything or anybody help him? She was being utterly silly.

The great spring flower show of the desert soon erased all else from her mind. The train sped past big slabs of rock decorated with golden blossoms, past cacti blooming artistically in purple and cerise, now and then an ocotillo, sticking out its flaming scarlet tongue; green leafless trees, gray prickly ones, clumps of feathery green grasses.

Then suddenly she was in Palm Springs and back in the hotel she knew so well.

* * *

"My darling!" Delores said. "At last, you've remembered you have a parent! I've searched everywhere for you—I've been frantic. Where have you been?"

Rita swiftly simmered this exaggeration down to sane fact, and knew Delores had been only mildly concerned over her absence. She also knew exactly what Delores would think about her daughter's accepting the hospitality of Minnie and Hobbs, what she would think of their simplicity of living.

So she said, with a slow smile, "It was nothing to get excited about, mother. I've been — oh, around. I read about your illness —started for here at once."

She kissed Delores' artfully made up cheek, dropped into a chair beside the bed.

"That was sweet of you," drawled Delores, speculatively. "You're staying here now. Promise?"

"As long as you need me, of course. But—you don't look so ill. From the newspaper account, I gathered you were in a bad way."

Delores laughed musically. Her jeweled fingers carefully smoothed the pink satin bedspread. She drew her dark brows together, protested childishly, "But I've really been very ill. Nerves, you know."

Rita began to understand. Delores always had an acute attack of nerves whenever she couldn't get what she wanted. She wondered if it were Harry Handy this time.

Before many more minutes it all came out, and Rita knew her conjecture was correct. Harry, Eva, and Tom had been a close threesome, excluding Delores from most of their activities. Harry, whom Delores had brought here and introduced, was acting abominably.

* * *

Rita knew better than to laugh this off, although it was difficult to repress the desire. Instead she pretended to sympathize with Delores, then gradually brought her around to a different frame of mind. Delores finally was induced to put on a new wine lace gown, and dine with her daughter in the hotel's grill room that night, to all outward appearances an enchanting example of maternal pride and devotion.

Eva, followed by Tom and Harry, rushed up to Delores' table soon after she and Rita were seated. Eva gushed prettily over Rita, and Harry acted as if he were ready to take up his play for Rita where it had been dropped a few weeks ago.

But Tim looked thoughtful. He asked her a strange question, "Why did you come back?" It came out gruffly, almost rudely.

Rita's heart sank with the thought, "He'd rather have a clear field—have only Eva around. I'm not—wanted."

She told him defiantly, "I returned because of mother's illness—naturally. "He needn't think she had come back to see him!

He nodded abstractly—all of a sudden he seemed to be thinking of something else. Rita tingled with resentment.

The five of them chatted trivialities a few minutes longer, then to the relief of Rita the trio left to return to their table across the room.

When she and Rita were alone, Delores burst out, "Did you see the way he looked at her? It's—it's disgusting!"

"You mean Harry? Heavens, darling — Eva's his cousin. There's nothing to it. He and Tom were thick as thieves before I left here—must have cooked up a business deal by this time. Anyhow, it's good riddance, if you ask me. How you can endure that Harry . . ."

"He is—common, isn't he?" said Delores, with more spite than conviction.

A waiter had come up and Rita began giving him her order, glad to be spared further condemnation of her mother's friend. She did, however, from then on try to keep the conversation to generalities, try to draw Delores into the spirit of frivolity surrounding them on all sides.

Every one was making a gala evening of it. There was dining, dancing, swimimng. A lighted waterfall at one end of the swimming pool was a colorful accompaniment to this last-of-the-season hilarious party for hotel guests, soon to abandon the menacing heat of the desert for cooler play spots.

After wandering about the grounds with Delores, Rita chose to watch the dancing in the ballroom and persuaded Delores to accompany her. They sat down in the spectators' seats along a side wall of the room.

Rita's eyes swept quickly over the dancers. The women, in their bright-coloerd gowns, made a radiant spring garden of the room; the rose-shaded lights, soft lilting music, and general air of festivity made a sweetly heady essence difficult to resist. Too many dancers looked as if parting would be such sweet sorrow, as if they had found romance under the desert moon and stars, and were reluctant to leave it.

* * *

Rita finally singled out Eva dancing with Harry Handy on the crowded floor. Rita sighed with disappointment. She could see no tall manly figure with sandy hair in that whole roomful of people.

Then abruptly, Tom was standing before her. Without preliminaries, he bowed stiffly and asked, "Dance?"

She hesitated an instant, imagined she saw many things in those level gray eyes now holding hers. She got slowly to her feet, looking nearly angelic in her long, full-skirted, white organdy gown.

Just then Harry came up, and quickly took Delores away. Rita wondered at Delores' readiness to dance with the man after the way he had been treating her; wondered if it were a sign of age, the older woman flattered by a young man's attention. A wave of pity shot through Rita. She thought, "Probably no one in the world needs me so much as Delores."

In Tom's arms, Rita tried to feel composed, to stop the rapid beat of her pulse. Tom, who had picked her up and let her down so often with his love-making. Heavens! She wasn't any different from Delores! Tom was not in earnest; she must realize that he meant to be nothing but an incident in her life.

"You should have stayed away," he told her now.

She appraised him seriously. He looked stern and determined, as if what she did was a matter of import. It was foolish of her to be convinced of this, but she couldn't help it.

She tried a laugh. Frivolity could cover so much.

"You're awfully concerned over my movements, kind sir. I don't see. . . ."

"I shall always be concerned—over you."

"It's fantastic, to say the least. You don't practice what you preach, Tom Cleveland. You're still an enigma."

"Sorry. But haven't I promised to tell you everything some day? Just now, I wish you and your mother would leave for parts unknown." He spoke hurriedly, excitedly.

* * *

She began to tremble. It was that old trouble of his, and he wanted to spare her embarrassment, perhaps unwelcome publicity! Oh, how she longed to tell him it didn't matter! Whatever it was, whatever he'd done, she would stand by him! But he already had too much conceit—thinking he could take this exaggerated interest in her whenever the spirit moved him.

She stumbled, and he caught her close in his arms. Her cheeks went against the lapel of his tobacco-scented coat. Her unruly heart was thumping, sending her pell-mell into she didn't know what, letting her make a perfect goose of herself over this man.

"You see—I don't want you around here when things break," he told her now.

White-faced, she lifted her head, looked at him squarely. "What—what things, Tom?" she asked, her voice shaky with fright.

MINOR PRICE CHANGES RULE STOCK MARKET

Analysts Study Federal Reserve Figures Disclosing Increase In Sales Figures.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Slight price changes either way ruled in today's stock market proceedings.

Market analysts studied federal reserve figures disclosing the country's department store sales for the week ended Nov. 11, registered an increase of 7 per cent over the like 1938 week compared with a gain in the preceding week of 13 per cent.

The reserve board, in a survey of economic conditions, indicated national industrial production during the first half of November approached and possibly exceeded its previous record.

Notice was taken of predictions made at a conference of the United States Chamber of Commerce that a substantial jump in building construction was likely in 1940, with costs remaining relatively stable in spite of any possible effects of the European conflict.

building when the explosion occurred.

She was hurled high in the air and fell into the basement through a hole torn in the sidewalk.

"It seemed to me I went up to the second floor," she said.

Leonard Steele, 19-year-old elevator operator, said he and another employe were changing clothes in the basement after the day's work.

"Some coins fell from my pocket and rolled under a table," he related. "I couldn't find them. I scratched a match, The explosion was terrible."

Steele suffered severe lacerations, burns and a head injury. Most of the others were cut by glass.

M. C. Mustaine, assistant fire chief, said the explosion "undoubtedly" was caused by gas, the source of which he could not determine.

The blast caused heavy damage to the 12-story office building which houses the Grand Avenue Temple, a Methodist church.

PLANT WORKERS FINED IN THEFTS

10 Dominion Employes Plead Guilty to Petit Larceny, Fined $10, Costs Each.

Ten persons, all of whom police said were employes of the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company, pleaded guilty in municipal court this morning to charges of petit larceny in connection with the theft of appliances from the factory.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch fined each defendant $10 and costs. The charges were filed by L. H. Luth, works manager at the plant.

Police accused them of looting the factory of approximately 30 pieces of electrical equipment ranging from large fans to small hair dryers, the total value of which was estimated at $71.

The loot was recovered by officers who raided the employes homes. They said that part of the stolen goods had been disposed of outside the city.

Those arraigned in court today were Eldred Briner, 25, Ninth avenue; Mrs. Astrid Clymer, 32, of 372 Springmill street; Edward Richthamer, 28, of 7 Elm street; Elizabeth McCoy, 37, of 167 East Fourth street; Dorthy E. Rowe, 21, of 7 South Adams street; Moral Jameson, 98 East Second street; E. R. Robert, 49 East Fourth street; Dudly Shaw, 27, of 170 East Third street; Joseph Werznack, 24, of 16 Jefferson avenue.

Police said they still held the plant watchman and two youths at whose home they recovered numerous articles stolen from the plant. He is being questioned for information concerning additional members of what was believed to be a theft ring.

Wilhelmshaven Raid 'Thwarted,' Nazis Say.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—The army high command announced today that three British airplanes had attempted to raid Wilhelmshaven, German naval base, but had been "thwarted," by anti-aircraft fire.

German pursuit planes chased the three raiders after anti-aircraft gunners had turned them back, but were unable to catch them, the communique said.

The time of the raid was not announced, but was believed to have been yesterday.

(On Sept. 4, the day after they went to war, British fliers bombed Wilhelmshaven and were reported to have seriously damaged a German pocket battleship. Germans have denied that any warship was damaged in the raid but the 1939 edition of Jane's fighting ships, authoritative naval annual, came out this week authenticating the report and quoting "American press sources" as saying the damaged ship was the Admiral Von Spee, one of three German pocket battleships.)

The German communique added that "In the west, there were only limited reconnaissance actions."

Tells of 'Reign of Terror' In Prague.

LONDON —(INS)— Prague today was described in the Daily Express as being under the "worst reign of terror" since German troops occupied Czechoslovakia last March.

Ten thousand Nazi S. S. troops are guarding public buildings and patrolling the streets of Prague, the British paper said.

A Reuters dispatch from the Austrain frontier via Paris asserted that as a result of the Munich beer hall explosion last week, 6,000 Czechs were arrested and 900 sent to concentration camps.

The agency added that, according to confidential reports of Prague police, the bodies of 30 S. S. men have been removed from the Vltava river since the beginning of the war.

Emil Hacha, president of the Bohemian - Moravian protectorate and the man who was compelled in Berlin last March to turn over Czechoslovakia to Germany, is a virtual "house prisoner" in his country estate, Reuters said.

A dispatch from Amsterdam said the newspaper Hetvolk carried a story saying Baron Constantin von Neurath, Reich protector, attempted to persuade Hacha to sign a decree involving these points:

1.—Alteration of the Czech borders "to benefit the Czechs."

2.—Reconversion of the protectorate into a republic dependent on Berlin.

3.—A declaration of loyalty to Germany.

4.—A declaration of war against Britain and France.

5.—Dispatch of a contingent of troops to help Germany.

When Hacha refused, the story went on, the Germans declared he was "overworked" and "advised" him to take a rest on his country estate.
